FARM BOY to GOVERNOR

with YOUR help and support!

The road to the Governor's Mansion has not been an easy one for George Wallace. He was raised on hard work. As a farmer's son during the depression years, he spent his days plowing corn, picking cotton, and working hard at farming from sun up to sun down.

Later he worked his way through the University of Alabama Law School by waiting on tables, doing clerical work, and driving a taxicab. He has worked constantly—bringing Alabama the fruits of the Wallace Industrial Act, Wallace Trade School Act and many other needed benefits.

The hard work and fighting heart that this background has given him have brought George Wallace to the threshold of the Governor's office.

George Wallace will make the only kind of governor he knows how to make-sober, conscientious, hard-working, economical, totally dedicated to making Alabama a better, more prosperous state for all its citizens and to maintaining our segregated customs and traditions.

George Wallace is the kind of man Alabama needs-and needs now-for Governor.

Are "administered" prices in the U.S. fair?

We don't think so. 88 per cent of all prices in the United States are administered. This simply means they are fixed by administrative decisions of managements of companies. This practice is possible only where the companies in question have monopolistic control in the industry. This is why the healthy competition of Rural Electrics is helpful to all users of elec-

NAACP Bloc Negro Vote Launches Drive Against Willard Livingston

Negro Bloc Vote Backs

In the May I primary, the NAACP Bloc Negro Vote voted solid against Willard Livingston for attorney general. His runoff opponent received the Negro Bloc Vote of the Negro political bosses in tell tale pluralities across

In Precinct 9, Box 1, Birmingham, there are a little more than 1,300 qualified voters. Of these, about 1,290 are colored.

As assistant attorney general, Willard Livingston participated in the suits against the NAACP, Core, Freedom Riders and agilators. He will continue to fight every foe of our Southern way of life. The Attorney General must be free to defend segregation against radicals and troublemakers. You can help to defeat the Nearo bloc vote-ale Willard Livingston-THE MAN WITH 14 YEARS EXPERIENCE ON THE JOB, as afformey general.

RYAN deGRAFFENRIED Says

"It's Time to Do More Than TALK Segregation"

Ryan deGraffenried is the only candidate for Governor with a fighting record of ACTION to keep segregation on every front in Alabama. In our State Senate, Ryan deGraffenried was a leading member of the hard working committee that approved all bills to safeguard segregation and resist Federal force to

In this campaign, Ryan deGraffenried IS the ONLY candidate who proposes a workable plan — an Alabama Department of Rights — to stand guard and defend our way of life all the way and all the time.

The Wallace Record on Segregation:

- · Got the Bloc Vote in the 1958 Governor's campaign. Voted "NO" in the Legislature on the Engelhardt plan to withhold State funds from any integrated
- Has NO workable program to keep segregation in our schools, colleges, parks and playgrounds.

Talk Won't Keep Segregation in Alabama

2. A STOP TO WASTE AND PAY-OFFS George Wallace is determined to see that every cent of Alabama's revenue is used for legitimate purposes - for schools, for the aged, for roads, and other badly-needed improvements. He will do this by: Cutting down the number of legislative days in his administration; abolishing the liquor agency system, which is notorious for its "pay-offs"; Eliminating private deals and tightening up the competitive bid law. Wallace also will ask the Legislature to cut appropria-

5. MORE NEW INDUSTRIES

The now-famous Wallace Industrial Act, sponsored by George Wallace as a member of the State Legislature, has already dramatically proved Wallace's interest in, and ability to get, new industries for our state. New industries that mean more and better jobs for many more Alabama people. The Wallace Act has already brought Alabama nearly 100 new industries and added millions of dollars in new payrolls to our state's economy. Now . . . it's time to let George Wallace himself, as Governor, get the fullest possible advantages for our state from the Wallace Industrial Act . . . and bring us even more new industries in the future.

Throughout his long years of service to the people of Alabama, George Wallace has consistently demonstrated his sense of fairness. In the questions of reapportionment, he knows that Alabama's small counties must be protected . . . and that counties with larger populations must be given fairer representation. Wallace intends to work diligently for passage of a reapportionment plan which will accomplish these goals and one which will automatically provide for legislative reapportionment after each Federal census.

7. FAST HELP FOR AGRICULTURE

Alabama's small farmer has been the "forgotten man" too ong. It's time to elect a governor who can . . . and will . . . give him some real help. Wallace intends to launch an immediate all-out drive for additional income for the farmer from new crops, new markets, new processing plants, with new sources of long-term capital credit. He will increase the appropriation for the Extension Service at Auburn, which longer and harder for the benefit of Alabama's senior citizens has clearly proved its ability to benefit the farmer. He will than any other candidate for governor. As your governor, give full support to the goals of Alabama cattlemen, and Wallace will leave no stone unturned to see that pensions work to solve the problems of the dairy and poultry industries.
